

- 1) if you fork exit, you close the child processes, but you wouldn't be able to reap them. If you fork cd, then the directory of the child process is changed, not the main process.
- 2) We use killpg before main exists because we do not want to end up with orphaned child processes. This command will kill the entire process group, so there will be no orphans.